Ad Librum.

GOE Little Book, and once a week make hands
With thy Good Reader, whome (by High Commands)
The Stars are made to wayt on dayly, Shew
Futurityes unto him; Bid Him view
Seasons of th' Yeer, and Tides orderly set
As Higher Influences them beget.
Shew Him how swift his Time is and how He Should swiftly pace it with the Hierarchy
I' th' Firmament above Hasting each Day
New ponderous Talents to the world to weigh
Of proffitable Opportunity.
Also forethew Him seasonably (by Letters Dominicall) the Holy Day;
That Hee the great Commandment may obey.
This Doe yet look to be [For 'tis thy Fate]
An Almanack the next year out of date.
Reader!
Lend me thy Favour, to initiate
My tender Genius, whilst I calculate
Heavens Motions say not, that each poring Jack
Is (only) fit to make an Almanack:
Gods wond'rous works they are of men below
That in them pleasure have sought out. O know
The Moons Eclipses thay are not too mean
For the Amozian Tables; Nor the scene
Of bright Arcturus course, Nor yet (to these)
The Influences of the Pleiades
Accounted are too low for the Divine:
They therfore well deserve the Harvardine.
Forgive me yet, Good Reader, If that I
The Names impos'd by old Idolatry
On Months and Planets still reteyn; Because
I'm forc't thereto by cruel Customs Laws.
Forbear thy Censure too, though thou mayst find
Some Aspects Epithets against thy mind.
Theyr dayly Influences to define
Infallibly is far beyond the Line
Of finite Skill; so likewise to deny
Theyr great Dominion, is to defie
The sacred Oracle it self, besides
Each Days Experience in Winds and Tydes.
Theyr Maker made them signs and why I trow
Except to signify; Then men may know
By Observation and Experience
What 'tis they signify, (In my poor sense)
If None can see what 'tis that these signs shew us
They'l be but insignificant unto us.
Yet think not that I'le give my Affidavit
Each Star shall prove as Ptolemy would have it:

I know the contrary: yet let them ſtand
Modeſtly Ephitheted to thy hand
By former Ages-Sages, Viſiting
A Clime unknown, where if they do not bring
The ſame Effects that theyr Experience gave,
Through Mounts, Lakes Seas that do the paſſage pave
For Winds excited by them; They may be
Exact in other climates, while that wee,
Humbly adoring the Divine Decree
To Nature given, Do obſerve how far
Thoſe Epithets will hold and where they jar.
Obſerve, or not obſerve, yet me (pray) damn not
Judicial Aſtrologer I am not:
That Art falſly ſo call'd I loath, I hate
Both Name and Thing I much abominate.
Harmleſs Aſtronomy yet (I confeſs)
(Wherin my Skill is ſmall, my practiſe leſs)
I pleaſe my ſelfe withall, in vacant Houres
Veiwing the Glorves of th' Aethereal Powrs
On which th'Eternall Powr and Godhead are
To Obſervation Super Ocular
Clearly apparent, Here I find the clew
Of Heavenly Manufacture which doth ſhew
The way unto the Labarynth Divine
Where the Eternall Glory's brightly ſhine.
In the Æthereall bodyes Mirrours be
Whereat, Good Reader, Wonder ſtill with me.
In Joſhuah's Soſtice at the Voyce of man
The Rapid Sun became Copernican.
Afterward th' Heavenly hand directly made
Sol's Excellency to turn Retrograde.
The Heavenly Soveraign Powr the Charioteer
Made drive apace when Heaven aloft did hear
The Siſerean Iron Chariotts rattle
(No fewer then Nine hundred) in the battle
The Stars then alſo in theyr courſes fought
And the Jabinian Army's put to rout.
But to Conclude, Light was before the Sun;
Moſt Radiant Light ſhall be when Sol hath done.
But firſt His Brightneſs th' ſhakings ſore ſhall feel,
And the Off Takings of his Chariot wheel:
Veiwing his Beauteous Queen, all turn'd to Blood
And all his Hoſt drown'd in a fiery flood;
Of th' day Divine the Dawnings hence we date
And hence they that ſurvive may calculate
The Bleſſed Epicyclar Perigee
Of much Expected long Eternity.

Oh Eighty Six! Thou'rt quickly come about!
This Sheet that brought thee in ſhall lay thee out.

MARCH hath XXXI. days.
